Why is diet important?

Good meal plan choices can:

- Slow the progression of kidney disease;
- Reduce or prevent some symptoms by adjusting certain nutrients in your meal plan;
- Help you achieve an optimal nutritional status.

What can a renal dietitian do for you?

- Teach you about foods you CAN eat;
- Teach you how to incorporate your favorite foods into your meal plan;
- Review your blood test results and teach you about your medications;
- Give you recipes, meal ideas, grocery lists, and other educational material;
- Help you learn to read food nutrition labels;
- Help you achieve and maintain a healthy weight;
- Help you understand all the nutrients necessary for a healthy body and;
- Work with other members of your health care team to help plan your care.

Please remember, all patients are different and require different dietary guidelines. There is no "one-size-fits-all" meal plan for kidney disease and each stage of kidney disease and a patient's lab values will dictate your meal plan.*

How do I find a renal dietitian?

One way to find a renal dietitian near you is to get a referral from your physician. Many medical practices and dialysis units also have dietitians on staff you can make an appointment to see.

Another way to find a dietitian is by visiting the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics' website:

www.eatright.org.

- On the home page, click on "Find a Registered Dietitian";
- Click on the "Expertise Area" which allows you to customize your search, finding a dietitian that best fits your needs;
- Finally, enter your zipcode in the "Search" box and click "Find RD".

It's that simple, a list of dietitians matching your requirements will appear with complete contact information.
